RIOT MARS GAME AT CHIFED PARK

Sox and Browns Break Even in Twin Bill-Cubs Play Like Bush Leaguers and Lose.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 17.-This is the 6: Cube story of a home run that was not a home run; of a nine-inning victory that ended in defeat, and of a 27 minate riot, during which umpires, owners and players argued.

The Chifeds lost to the Baltimore Terrapins, I to 0, but the outcome was only a minor incident compared to what happened when Umpire Van Sycle called Zwilling back to bat again after he had knocked a home run with a runner on base in the eighth inning

When "Little Alec" stepped to the plate in this session one man was out and Fritz was on first. Zwilling fouled one and then when the umpire tossed out a new ball Pitcher Balley started soiling it. Coacher Block protested and the umpire raffed his arm to stop the game just as the pitcher threw the ball. There was a crack, a fash and two runs were over the plate, the pill being driven into the rightfield bleachers.

Rule Ball Was Dead.

Then the riot started. Manager Knabe rushed to Van Sycle asserting the ball was out of play as soon as he raised his hand, and the bewildered arbiter went out into the field to confer with his mate, Monte Cross. He returned to the plate and called Zwilling back, ruling that he had made his hit after time had been called.

If a German airship had exploded over the park at this particular moment it is doubtful whether it would have caused more commotion. Fans, players and Manager Tinker raised a yell that could be heard a half mile away, the excited athletes surrounding the "umps" and protesting, Tinker yeiling that he would never play it out unless the runs were allowed and calling upon Van Sycle to forfeit the Gilmore Sticks to Umpires.

In the meantime President Gilmore remained calm. He asserted the umpires were in the right and censured them for not calling off the game. He sent a friend down to tell Van Sycle to stand pat, at the same time announcing that no protest would be considered.

These arguments continued until Weeghman weakened and told Tinker | Central Tr. & Sav. Bk... 3 2 to abide by the umpire's ruling. "You're the boss and I am forced to Western Electric 1 4 .200 de it," Joe replied, "but we are making a mistake."
